Membership Admission Policy

This Policy defines the criteria, required documentation and steps of the admission process for new members of the Brazil–Oman Chamber of Commerce, ensuring a transparent, rigorous process aligned with institutional compliance practices.

Purpose

To establish the eligibility criteria and review process for admitting individuals and legal entities as members of the Brazil–Oman Chamber of Commerce.

Eligibility Criteria

Companies, institutions and professionals, Brazilian or foreign, interested in fostering commercial, institutional or investment relations between Brazil and the Sultanate of Oman may apply for membership, provided they do not fall under any restriction set out in this Policy or the AML/KYC Policy.

Process Steps

The admission process comprises: (i) pre-registration on the Chamber's website; (ii) full completion of the Candidate Portal, including personal data, company data, business profile and answers to the compliance and integrity questionnaire; (iii) submission of required documentation; (iv) compliance review by the Executive Board; (v) approval or request for additional clarification; and (vi) formalization of membership upon payment of the corresponding contribution.

Required Documentation

Required documentation varies according to the nature of the candidate (individual or legal entity, domestic or foreign) and includes, among others, corporate documents, identification of directors and beneficial owners, tax certificates and clearances, as specified in the Candidate Portal.

Compliance Review

Every application undergoes a compliance review, which assesses the information and documents submitted, including answers to the integrity questionnaire, and may be supported by analytical tools — without, however, replacing the human judgment of the Executive Board, which alone makes the final decision.

Membership Categories and Contribution

The Chamber may classify members into different categories, each with annual contribution amounts corresponding to the level of participation and benefits offered, according to the schedule in force made available during the admission process.

Grounds for Refusal or Conditional Approval

An application may be refused, suspended, or made conditional on additional clarification when integrity risks, inconsistencies in the documentation submitted, or incompatibility with the Chamber's ethical principles are identified, with no detailed justification owed to the candidate beyond the outcome of the review.

Rights and Duties of Members

Approved members are entitled to access institutional benefits, the Chamber's network and participation in initiatives promoted by the entity, and must, in turn, keep their registration information up to date and observe the Code of Ethics and Conduct and other institutional policies.

Termination and Suspension

Membership may be suspended or terminated in the event of non-compliance with institutional policies, non-payment of membership dues, or at the member's own request, according to criteria established by the Executive Board.

Final Provisions

This Policy may be periodically reviewed by the Executive Board and applies to all admission processes underway or initiated after its publication.
